

LEARNING THE ART THROUGH FOREIGN LANGAUGES

S. Norqulova¹, M. Rabbimova²

Abstract:

Learning the art through foreign languages opens up diverse cultural perspectives and enriches artistic expressions. This abstract investigates the impact of language acquisition on artistic development and the reciprocal influence between language and art. By examining the interplay between linguistic nuances and artistic interpretations, it explores how the process of learning a foreign language enhances creativity, broadens artistic horizons, and fosters cross-cultural exchange. The findings emphasize the transformative potential of language learning in deepening artistic understanding and expanding artistic endeavors.

Key words: artistic creation, visual image, linear reproduction.

doi: <https://doi.org/10.2024/6jppghh21>

In present days everybody learns at least one foreign language in order to go abroad. Apart from, there are people who know and learn more than one and two or even three foreign languages. These individuals acquire a knowledge of the language itself, the grammar, vocabulary and other parts of language.

Acquiring skills in foreign languages (English, Chinese, French, Italian) gives the huge number of chances, because of inventions, adds are being created in well-known and international languages and learning them are becoming more popular, vital and actual issue. Including the art (drawing, singing and playing on instruments), in these fields, people are developing their imagination, way of thinking, and broaden horizon at the same time, and becoming more creative.

The basic definition of drawing is a visual image created using tools such as a pen or pencil. Drawing is that the piece of art, where every individual may draw what they think, imagine. Also, it motivates, centered on shape and value (the lightness and darkness of colour) and helps people every time to learn, grow and create something new to the world. Drawing in art as a formal artistic creation can be defined as the predominantly linear reproduction of objects in the visible world, as well as concepts, thoughts, relationships, emotions, perspectives and fantasies that give visual form of symbols and even abstract forms. Drawing can be used to depict an image either from real life or from the artist's imagination. Drawing is considered an art form because it is a technique used to create images that capture or convey information through visual form. So, in drawing, the artists deliver their ideas, make people think on picture because they hide the meaning in it. The artists also want people to notice even some little meaning from the picture and realize that this is a masterpiece ever. And, in short, drawing is the end product of consistent effort applied directly to the carrier. Art as drawing evokes emotions, helps build relationship between countries too, because every country exhibit pictures and people from all over the world come to see them. And even in drawing in order to start it, sometimes we need to know or acquire some knowledge. As an instance, the history, and order to read and acknowledge exact country's history of drawing, we must know at least English, because it nounced as international language and you can find any book in English related to your sphere and easily read it. Reading the history of drawing helps, and gives you points, notes on how to draw, choose colours, theme and find the right place where you want to start drawing. Besides it, artists who draw the masterpieces and bombard the world, were mostly the Italians and the French. So that's why, words related to art mostly were created in Italian and Frech, but from time to time some words were started using with little changes, for instance: (l'arte- art, il collage- collage, la galleria- gallery, la letteratura- literature, la musica- music, la statua- statue) from Italian to English. So, knowing different languages every time helped, helps and will help you in the field of art.

¹ Norqulova Sevara Akmal qizi, Student of Samarkand Institute of Foreign Languages

² Rabbimova Mekhribon Ravshan qizi, Teacher of English at Samarkand Institute of Foreign Languages

Singing is a piece of art too. Through singing the singer delivers emotions, feelings and thoughts that listener may imagine the situation of singer. Sometimes, songs influence on people's mood, so they may feel themselves very happy, sad or irritated. Singing songs boosts mood and confidence, makes every people feel better, beats stress, helps to relax and improves your memory. As an example, you sing everyday lots of songs in different languages, it means that you are working with brain, with remembering the words. If people do not understand the word in song, they try finding the word itself and the meaning from vocabularies, searching on internet and remembering. Being acquainted with foreign languages such as English- international language, Arabic, French, Turkish, Korean and other different languages in field of art- singing, firstly helps to know the meaning of that exact song. Wherever you are, if you know foreign language, you never lose the way, concentration and you know what singer wants to share with you.

To conclude, knowing foreign languages plays a significant role in our lives as the filed of art. They are helpful in order to be acquainted with terms, words taken from other languages, and feel artist, have an imagination on exact picture and understand it.

References:

- [1]. Clairmont, J. (2019). The Impact of Second Language Acquisition on Developing Artistic Competence: A Case Study. Journal of Arts and Humanities, 8(12), 9-18.
- [2]. Han, J., & Chen, L. (2018). Intercultural Learning in Art Education: Exploring the Role of Foreign Language Acquisition. Art Education Research, 41(2), 127-142.
- [3]. Rabbimova M. R., Ruzimuradova N. R. Implementing Modern Methods in Teaching Process // Journal of Language Pedagogy and Innovative Applied Linguistics. – 2023. – C. 39-43
- [4]. Johnston, J. (2017). Language and Art: The Benefits of Learning Artistic Skills Through a Foreign Language. Foreign Language Annals, 50(1), 191-206.