

IMPORTANCE OF TEXTUAL INTEGRITY IN ACADEMIC WRITING

Sh. Nosirova ¹, Sh. Ochilov ², N. Mirzayeva ³

Abstract:

A fundamental principle of educational institutions is academic integrity, which ensures that students produce work that is accurate and distinctive. However, there are still a lot of obstacles to preserving the integrity of academia because plagiarism is so prevalent. Consequently, the development of text-matching and software to identify plagiarism has become essential in the fight against this prevalent issue. This research looks at the problems and trends that text-matching technologies and plagiarism are now facing, with an emphasis on how they might support academic integrity. The first component talks about how plagiarism is changing, emphasizing how students are using sophisticated techniques to trick plagiarism detection software. Text-matching software is facing significant challenges from the likes of machine-generated material, fraudulent contract services, and online essay mills.

Key words: Organic Collaboration, NESAs, textual integrity, Academic Integrity, uncompromising adherence, Macro Techniques.

doi: <https://doi.org/10.2024/htr1wh67>

The unity of a text; its cohesive use of language and form to create an integrated whole in terms of meaning and value is what the NESAs refers to as textual integrity. Organic Collaboration: When a text's ideas and literary instruments mesh to create a coherent whole, it can be said to exhibit textual integrity. You are undoubtedly aware of the feeling that some elements of a book you admire, such as an album or movie, "fit together." Many students only pay attention to the dark and melancholy parts of Eliot's poetry, but it's crucial to notice the subtle references to redemption and hope, especially in his later pieces. 2. Recognize the significance of textual integrity, which calls for viewing each piece of literature as an integrated whole. Dr. Catherine Kelly, Office of Academic Support: Writing with academic integrity is especially important because it allows you to contribute your own voice and understanding about the topic, and it's basically, you're contributing to the field. Writing with integrity requires finding your own voice and making your own arguments while maintaining a clear distinction between this voice and the voices and arguments of others. Textual features are devices used in written communication. They are unique to written forms, and include things such as a text's title, index, glossary, and more. It's important for children to learn about textual features so that they can properly present their ideas in a written format.

The conventions specific to a particular type of text, often signaling content, purpose and audience, for example letter form, drama script, blog. Defined as "The unity of a text; the coherent use of form and language to produce an integrated whole in terms of both meaning and value”, there are 3 parts to textual integrity: a. Macro Techniques: Try to pick up on overarching techniques and how this paints a particular portrait of characters throughout the play. b. The symbolism of the waste land, garden, water, city, stairs, etc., as Eliot expresses the themes of time, death-rebirth, levels of love (and attitude toward women), the quest motif on psychological, metaphysical, and aesthetic levels. Collaging bits and pieces of dialogue, images, scholarly ideas, foreign words, formal styles, and tones within one poetic work was a way for Eliot to represent humanity's damaged psyche and the modern world. What is Academic Integrity? The purpose of academic integrity is to guarantee the knowledge pools of each academic field are not contaminated by incorrect or unsubstantiated information. In other words, all written work must be accurate, original work. Integrity skills in the workplace include acting with integrity when demonstrating core values. Show up for work on time, be ready to work and be honest and open in communicating with others. Hold yourself accountable for the work you do and what people do under you. Factual texts merely seek to inform, whereas literary texts seek to entertain or otherwise engage the reader by using creative language and imagery. Academic texts are critical, objective and specialized texts that are written by professionals or experts in a particular field. They are aimed at the academic community. Academic texts are formal, based on facts and evidence and always contain citations. A good text is understandable, pleasant, interesting and stimulating. Integrity implies trustworthiness and incorruptibility to a degree that one is incapable of being false to a trust, responsibility, or pledge. probity implies tried and proven honesty or integrity. Code integrity is a measurement used in the software delivery lifecycle. It measures how high the source code's quality is when it is passed on to QA, and is affected by how thoroughly the code was processed by correctness-checking processes (whether manual or automatic). Integrity is an indispensable moral virtue that includes acting with honesty, fairness, and decency. Integrity is a fundamental quality that defines one's character. It encompasses honesty, moral principles, and ethical values, making it a cornerstone of an individual's identity. Integrity is the cornerstone of good character, and encompasses all 12 of our character traits. It is the quality of being honest, trustworthy, fair, responsible, caring, and having the moral courage to do the right thing. Integrity is the quality of being honest and, having strong moral principles; moral uprightness. It is generally considered a personal trait and one that can be difficult to define. However, individuals with integrity are widely respected because they adhere to moral and ethical principles. Integrity skills in the workplace include acting with integrity when demonstrating core values. Show up for work on time, be ready to work and be honest and open in communicating with others. Hold yourself accountable for the work you do and what people do under you. Building SEL (social and emotional learning) skills such as integrity requires face-to-face interaction, meaningful discussion, and reflection. Detach is no complete substitute for that, but there are tools that can supplement the development of character, both in the classroom and at home. Integrity is the quality of being honest and showing a consistent and uncompromising adherence to strong moral and ethical principles and values.

¹ Nosirova Shoiras Olimovna, EFL teacher of SamSIFL

² Shohrux Ochilov Ikromjon o'g'li, student of SamSIFL

³ Mirzayeva Nigina Sodiqjon qizi, student of SamSIFL

The following are some of soft skills employers most desire in their employees: Honesty and integrity. Strong work ethic. Emotional intelligence. Acting with integrity has social benefits. Research suggests that authentic people are well-liked, and they benefit from social support and the many other positive outcomes associated with enjoying close relationships with others Integrity, bravery, and social intelligence were all character strengths that were significant predictors of performance for top-level executives. Entrepreneurial leaders possess several qualities that allow them to drive business success including integrity, honesty, and ethical standards. This values-based leadership is at the core of what sets apart those leaders at the top of their entrepreneurial game. Integrity is the practice of being honest and showing a consistent and uncompromising adherence to strong moral and ethical principles and values. In ethics, integrity is regarded as the honesty and truthfulness or accuracy of one's actions. INTEGRITY – This is internal consistency and a state of being whole. An internal quality based on commitment. i.e. – being your word (that you make to yourself and others). Integrity can be defined as aligning your conduct with what you know to be excellent. A person of integrity displays a principled dedication to values and beliefs. They always seek to reflect ethical standards and do the right thing regardless of the circumstances.

References:

- [1]. Khtere A. R., and Yousef A. M. F. *The professionalism of online teaching in Arab universities: validation of faculty readiness. Educ. Technol. Soc.*24. 2021. 1–12pp.
- [2]. Wang L., and Wang, Z. (2017). *Research on the system design and development of online teaching platform based on ASP.NET. Boletin Tecn. Techn. Bull.*55, 539–546pp.
- [3]. Z. Shermamatova Journal of Language Pedagogy and Innovative Applied Linguistics 1 (4), 223-227pp. 2023
- [4]. Z. Shermamatova Journal of Language Pedagogy and Innovative Applied Linguistics 1 (4), 228-234pp. 2023
- [5]. Z. Shermamatova Journal of Language Pedagogy and Innovative Applied Linguistics 1 (4), 245-249pp. 2023